

DMS 204: Sectional Anatomy

This course is a study in gross and sectional anatomy and physiology of the human body and the correlation of that anatomy to sonographic, computed tomography and magnetic resonance images. Upon completion students will be able to identify normal sonographic anatomy.

Credits: 2

Program: Diagnostic Medical Sonography