

HUS 138 : Counseling from a Cultural Perspective

This course introduces problems facing minorities and the importance of the counselor's knowledge of, and sensitivity to, the minority client experience. Emphasis is placed on how the counselor and mental health practitioner can maximize effectiveness when working with a culturally diverse population. Upon completion of this course, the student will have an understanding of how to establish a counseling relationship with culturally diverse clients.

Program

Human Services

Hours 3

Theory Hours 3

Prerequisites

Admission to Human Services Program and permission of instructor